VILLAGE COMMITTEES ARE RE-APPOINTED AS BOARD TAKES OFFICEMarshals Simonson, Brogan
and Fire Chief Stearns
Also Holdovers

Re-appointment of all standing committees was announced by President Geo. B. Bartlett at the inaugural meeting Tuesday night. The standing committees of last year functioned efficiently, according to the mayor, and as there was no change this year in the personnel of village trustees, Lux, Lowry and Drom being re-elected, no advantage was to be gained by switching committee members who had the benefit of a year's experience in their respective committees. H. J. Vos, E. O. Hawkins and Nason Sibley, together with the re-elected, constitute the village board of trustees.

Committees Re-Appointed:
Lights and Lighting—Charles Lux, Nason E. Sibley and H. J. Vos.
Finance—Eugene Hawkins, H. J. Vos and J. B. Drom.
Sewer and Water—Nason E. Sibley, H. P. Lowry and Charles Lux.
Street and Alley—H. P. Lowry, Eugene Hawkins and J. B. Drom.

Adding and Salaries—H. J. Vos and Eugene Hawkins.
Licenses and Licensing—Charles Lux, H. J. Vos and H. P. Lowry.
Stearns' Appointment Approved.
James Stearns, for years chief of Antioch's volunteer fire department, was again selected by the firemen and received the endorsement of the village board Tuesday night. Simon Simonson was again employed as police chief and will be in charge of the sewer and water department. Marshal John Brogan was retained as assistant.

Dr. Beebe again is health officer, and Village Engineer Struder, of Libertyville, has been retained. Richard Corrin was re-appointed building commissioner. Re-appointment of E. M. Runyard as village attorney was not endorsed by the board, but the Waukegan attorney will continue to act until an appointment is made.

Te board of local improvements consists of the entire village board.

Harry A. Isaacs, elected a year ago, continues as village clerk.

The only change in the personnel of village officers this year was that of treasurer, James Dunn, who was elected to succeed William A. Rosling. Dunn's bond of $10,000 has been accepted by the board.

Will Paint Water Standpipes.

Greenley Brothers were employed to clean and paint the water standpipes and they will begin work at once, the committee stated. Automatic pumps will keep water pressure in the mains during the time the reservoir is empty and little or no inconvenience will be experienced during the forty-eight hours required to clean and paint the inside of the big pipe, the contractors said. The standpipe was last painted about five years ago.

WILLIAM JAMES
DIES AT HOSPITALHad Been in Ill Health for Several Months; Death
Result of Stroke

William James, 77, one of Lake county's pioneer residents and brother of J. C. James, passed away at the Lake county hospital at Waukegan yesterday afternoon, following a stroke. He had been in poor health several months, and had spent the last three weeks at the hospital.

He was born in English Prairie, Ill., October 18, 1853, and lived there until his marriage to Miss Sena Hoffman when he was 21 years old. For six years he and his wife farmed on a ranch in Kansas, but the rest of his life has been spent in Lake county. He retired from active farming, upon the death of his wife twenty-three years ago, and has lived in Antioch for sixteen years.

Surviving him are seven children—two sons, Joseph Jr., Rockford, Ill., and Francis, Beach, Ill., and five daughters, Mrs. Amada Peacock and Mrs. Ada Carr, Spring Grove, Ill.; Mrs. Martha Brown, Beloit, Wis.; Mrs. Anna Sanders, of Montana; and Mrs. Ina Gracy, Crystal Lake, Ill. He also leaves a brother, Joseph James, and a sister, Mrs. William Osmond, both of Antioch.

Funeral services will be held at the Methodist church at 12:45 Standard Time Friday afternoon, with the Rev. Mr. Bohl officiating. Interment will be at English Prairie cemetery.

Mooseheart Abodes
Interest Antioch
Moose and Friends

Mooseheart, the home of little children, was visited Sunday by nearly a hundred Antioch persons, including members of the Moose lodge, their families and friends.

The caravan of eighteen cars which left here in the morning was led by two officers of the state police. The group reached Mooseheart about noon and, after lunch in a park, were conducted through the cottages, the baby wards, the radio station, the dairy farm which supplies Mooseheart with milk from 113 head of cattle, and the tower erected over miles of territory which looks over miles of territory.

Moose members were greatly impressed with the cleanliness and comfort of the children's wards, and the care given the children. "It is well worth anyone's time to make the 60-mile trip to Mooseheart to observe just what the Moose organization is doing for orphan children, and the thoughtful care which they receive," Dictator Hachmeister declared, enthusiastically.

APPELLATE COURT
DELAYS VERDICT
IN CONTEMPT CASEJudges Will Render Decision in Case of Abt, Lowry
and Macek of Antioch

Three appellate court judges in court session at Ottawa Tuesday were called upon to hear arguments of counsel for three Antioch business men and to decide whether they serve sentences for contempt of court or be absolved from blame.

The defendants involved in the appeal case are Robert C. Abt, realtor, H. P. Lowry, plumbing contractor, and Richard Macek, builder of the Antioch Palace and fight promoter, all of Antioch.

Charged with taking equipment from the Palace when the place was in receivership and in custody of the Lake county sheriff, Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtliff gave Macek a 90-day jail sentence, Lowry 30 days, and Abt 10 days, the latter two being fined $200 each.

Attorney W. R. Behanna, counsel for C. K. Anderson in the foreclosure case, asked that the appeal be dismissed, while Attorney George W. Field reviewed the case in behalf of the defendants. Field was appointed amicus curiae by Judge Shurtliff at the time of the contempt of court trial.

It is expected that the appellate court judges will render their decision soon.

DETOUR SIGN ON MAIN STREET IS
REMOVED TODAYTrucks to Follow Cement
Route; Short Detour May Be Established

The reopening of Route 21 for passenger car traffic to Loon lake or any of the three roads connecting with Route 59 was announced today by the Lake county road and bridge committee, of which Supervisor W. A. Rosling is a member. Trucks will follow the regular marked detour over Lake street in Antioch, Route 59 and Grand avenue to Lake Villa, the committee said.

Because the regular detour completely cut off traffic between the two towns, thus depriving business places at Loon lake and other points along the route of summer business, the county highway committee asked the state highway department for permission to route passenger traffic as far as possible over Milwaukee avenue.

There is a possibility that a short detour may be established at the Soo Line crossing at Lake Villa by building a road around the point where the viaduct is in construction, according to Supervisor Rosling. "The state department has agreed to build and maintain such a detour if suitable right of way is secured," Rosling said. If this is accomplished it will not only prove a boon to Loon lake and other business places along the line, but will also remove what is admitted to be a business handicap for Antioch and environs.

SOO LINE URGED TO PROVIDE SAFEGUARDS
AT NORTH CROSSINGCoroner's Jury Calls Death of Libertyville Youths Accidental

Immediate action on the part of Soo Line officials to establish adequate warning signals and safeguards at the crossing north of Antioch was strongly recommended by members of the coroner's jury which met Friday morning to investigate the deaths of five Libertyville youths, who lost their lives when they crashed into a freight train two weeks ago. The jury, composed of Robert C. Abt, Walter Chinn, Rollo Grunmacher, Guy Ellis, Harold Tucker and James Horan, returned a verdict of accidental death.

Report Damage Suite Started.
Damage suits against the railroad amounting to $50,000 are reported to have been started by relatives of the boys who were killed. The boys, who were returning from a fish fry at Camp Lake, were traveling at a high rate of speed and evidently did not observe the moving freight train, until almost to the tracks. The driver, asserted, but could not cut down the speed, and crashed into the freight, derailing four cars. Four of the young men were killed instantly and one lived but a few minutes.

It was declared by Mr. and Mrs. Claude Patterson, who were witnesses to the tragedy, and has been ascertained by the jury that the boys could not have seen the wig-wag signal on the south side of the tracks above the passing train.

The victims of this latest tragedy were Horrick Harrington, George Eaton, Edgar Lindroth and Daniel Whelan, of Libertyville, and Clifford Gustafson, of Elgin.

Chairman Obee Released

For Attempted MayhemCOL. A. V. SMITH
TO SPEAK AT NEXT
MEN'S CLUB DINNER

Col. A. V. Smith, state's attorney, of Waukegan, has been secured to speak at the next regular meeting and dinner of the Men's Club Friday evening, May 15. His subject will be, "Some of the Difficulties of Law Enforcement in Lake County."

The dinner will be served by the ladies of the Methodist church at the church hall at 6:30 Standard Time, for the usual price. An informal program will precede Colonel Smith's address.

WARRANT IS OBTAINED
AFTER CONFERENCE
WITH STATE'S ATT'YAct of Chairman Is Regarded as Challenge,
Taxpayers AssertPRELIMINARY HEARING
IS SET FOR MAY 14

Chairman William J. Obee, of the Lake county board of supervisors, was released on bonds of $1,000 today following his arrest this morning on charges of attempted mayhem. The charge resulted from Obee's attack on R. H. Stripe, president of the Waukegan Taxpayers' association, last Tuesday, when the latter sought and was refused audience before the Lake county supervisor body.

The preliminary hearing is set for next Thursday, May 14.

Following a conference of the taxpayers' executive committee with Col. A. V. Smith, state's attorney, Tuesday night, Stripe yesterday appeared before Justice Harry Hoyt and swore out a warrant charging that Chairman Obee committed mayhem April 28 when he clutched the throat of his accuser.

Warrant Served This Morning.
Although the warrant was not served on Obee until he came to Waukegan this morning when the document was read to him by Chief Deputy Thomas Kennedy, the chairman was apprised of his impending arrest last night and he is said to have expressed surprise.

Obee is quoted in the Chicago Herald and Examiner today as saying: "Possibly it was also mayhem when Mr. Stripe pulled my nose. But I must interview the state's attorney before I can be certain. Possibly I shall ask to have Mr. Stripe put under a peace bond to prevent him from further insulting, threatening and striking me."

Attack Regarded as Challenge.
Declaring that Chairman Obee is attempting to deprive citizens of their right to petition the county board, Stripe and his associates are insisting on prosecution of Obee to the full extent of the law. It is declared by the Taxpayers body that no precedent be established in this case that would prove cause for intimidation on the part of those who in the future would petition the board.

Stripe, the Taxpayers body declares, represents hundreds of citizens and his rebuff by Chairman Obee, even to the point of physical combat, is regarded by the group as a challenge to show what they can do about it, or else mind their own business in the future.

The case of Chairman Obee is being watched with keen interest throughout the county.

Employees of People.

Supervisors are public employees, the taxpayers' organization declares, and thus their public acts are subject to criticism—they should be amenable to suggestions for the public welfare—and courteous at all times to the public whom they serve.

A weekly publication by the Taxpayers' association is being planned for the purpose of enlightening the public regarding Lake county governmental affairs that should prove instructive and helpful both to citizens and to officials.

A warrant was served on Stripe to prevent him from making verbal and physical attacks on Chairman Obee. It was learned here late today.

URGE ADEQUATE PROTECTION

(Waukegan Daily Times.)

The coroner's jury which heard the evidence in the case of the five youths from Libertyville who met death several nights ago when their automobile crashed into the side of a freight train at a grade crossing just north of Antioch, incorporated in their verdict an urgent recommendation that the Soo Line take steps immediately to provide adequate safeguards.

This recommendation is not a mere gesture—it is the unanimous opinion of every resident of Antioch—of the entire county, for that matter. Too long this crossing has been a source of constant menace to every motorist approaching it from the north. A waving signal light has been installed on the south side of the crossing, but this is not visible to anyone approaching from the north when the crossing is blocked by a train.

It has been reported that damage suits amounting to a total of $50,000 are to be started against the railroad as a result of this latest tragedy. Additional accidents will bring similar suits, and more accidents there are sure to be unless a more adequate signalling device is installed. As a matter of saving itself the cost of expensive suits, if not for the safeguarding of human life the railroad should lose no time in carrying out the suggested recommendations. Every common carrier seeks good will of the public—certainly there can be no good will when a menace of this kind is allowed to exist. In the cause of economy to itself, and in the name of common decency, the Soo Line cannot longer decline to safeguard this hazard.

COUNTRY PRINTER PROTESTS

The Thulia, Texas, Herald of April 9 took exception to a legislative measure proposed in that state to permit the state prison printing plant to file bids for state printing contracts, thereby permitting a tax-created and tax-maintained institution to compete with taxpayers. It said this would be a "dangerous law."

"Private enterprises possibly would not have invested millions and millions of dollars in Texas printing industries had they any reason to expect that the state would use tax dollars to establish competitive printing plants, manned by men who would receive little or nothing for their services. Private enterprises must pay printers and pressmen rather high wages for their services and the private concerns could not hope to compete with the prison plants, as any fair-minded person can see."

There is as much logic and justice in a bill which would permit convict labor to use a state-owned plant to compete with private printers, as there is in the law which now permits the federal government to print return addresses on envelopes and sell them at prices which small printers throughout the nation cannot hope to meet.

In either case government property, supported by all the taxpayers, is used in a competitive manner to injure a particular branch of business which is itself taxed to establish or maintain tax-free competition with which it cannot compete. Regardless of all finespun socialistic and political theories, this doctrine is contrary to the fundamentals of our government and should not be tolerated in a free country.

LIKE THE DRUG HABIT

The Portland Oregonian points out that when a high public official in the discharge of his duties, sets an example of economy and retrenchment, it will soon be reflected in lesser subdivisions of government and by lesser public officials.

Too many states governments, like private citizens, for some years past bought recklessly on the installment plan—loading the payments onto the future. For two years we have been "paying up." Legislative bodies, however, are still mortgaging the future on the theory that borrowing and spending will benefit the present.

There are cases where such public mortgaging is necessary. But mortgaging just to spend, in order to keep money in circulation, is something like the drug habit—the victim enjoys the sensation until the effect has worn off, and then his condition is worse than before.

IN A NUTSHELL

Thirty years ago the population of the United States was 81,000,000, and the average person contributed $19.39 in taxes to support government.

In 1928, the last year for which complete official statistics are available, the population was 120,000,000 and the per capita tax had increased to $105.20. And now senators are figuring how to raise income tax rates to cover the $500,000,000 treasury deficit that followed the last congress.

Here is the tax situation in a nutshell. It should give the public something to think about.

The luncheon and card party given by the ladies of the club Wednesday of last week at the Woman's University club, drew rather a small group, only fifteen availing themselves of the happy privilege of a get-together party. However, small groups are conducive to much sociability, and those present enjoyed a delightful lunch and a pleasant game of bridge. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. Henry Paulson, Mrs. Max Maurer, and Mrs. Lillie Britton, and the guest prize went to Miss Ostlund, who was the guest of Mrs. Wm. S. Mills Jr. Others present were Mesdames Sandell, Gnaedinger, Johnson, Van Pelt, Phillips, Arms, Phelps, Baldwin, Harcastle and Laffin.

FORD BRAKES ARE UNUSUALLY EFFECTIVE

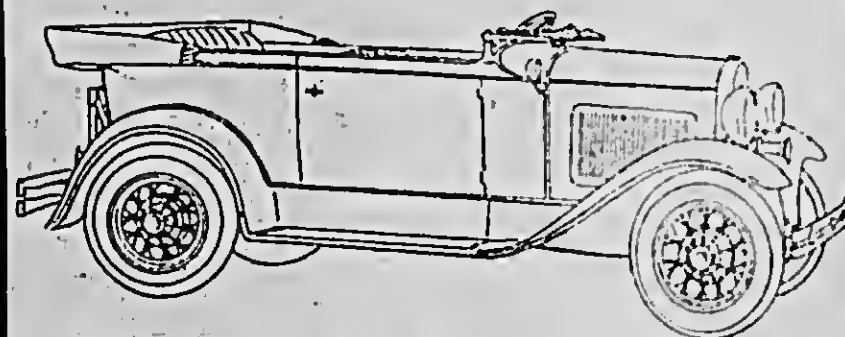

Reliability and safety due to simple design and careful construction

ONE OF the first things you will notice when you drive the Ford is the quick, effective action of its four-wheel brakes.

They are unusually safe and reliable because they are mechanical, internal expanding, with all braking surfaces fully enclosed. This prevents mud, water, sand, etc., from getting between the band and drum and interfering with brake action.

Other outstanding features of the Ford are the Triplex, shatter-proof glass windshield, four Hou-daille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, torque-tube drive, more than twenty ball and roller bearings, Rustless Steel, reliability, economy, and long life.

How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT by Wynne Ferguson Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 14

Here are four hands that were recently played in one of the New York Clubs, and they all present points of general interest.

Hand No. 1
Hearts—A, Q, J, 9, 7
Clubs—J, 7, 4
Diamonds—10, 6
Spades—8, 4, 2

Z

AUCTION BIDDING:
No score, rubber game. If Z dealt, should Y do?

Many players with Y's hand would pass and give as their reason that he holds three spades and should, therefore, not deny his partner's spade bid. This reasoning is correct if your partner never bids a four-card suit; but, in these days, four-card suits are bid freely and often, and three small trumps are not average or proper support for a four-card suit-bid. Such a suit-bid, to produce the best results, requires at least three trumps to an honor or four or more small trumps. Y's proper bid, therefore, is two hearts.

At spades, Y Z could make only first odd, while at hearts they could easily score four odd, game and rubber. Z held a four-card spade bid and A made two tricks in spades. Be on the lookout for such hands and don't hesitate to show a good suit as Y held, even if you do hold three small trumps of your partner's suit.

At Contract, the bidding should be the same.

Hand No. 2
Hearts—9, 8, 5, 3
Clubs—A, 10
Diamonds—K, J, 10, 7
Spades—7, 6, 2

Z

AUCTION BIDDING:
No score, rubber game. If Z dealt, should Y do?

Problem No. 9
Hearts—A, Q, 10
Clubs—A, K, Q
Diamonds—K, J, 9, 4
Spades—J, 6, 4

Z

Hearts—K, 7, 4
Clubs—J, 10, 7, 4
Diamonds—A, 10
Spades—K, 9, 2

AUCTION BIDDING:
No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one no trump and A passed. If A passed, the five of diamonds, how should Z play the hand so that he can score a grand slam against any defense?

Contract Bidding:
Z's proper opening bid is two no trumps. A passes; and Y should bid for a grand slam. All pass, so the problem is to make a grand slam against any defense.

FOUND RELIEF; GAINED WEIGHT

Great Medicine Again Triumphs
And Is Gratefully Praised By Former Sufferer

Read the experience of Mr. Philip Kerbek, 724 N. Eleventh Street, Philadelphia, who says: "I was weak and run down, my muscles were stiff and sore and I had frightful headaches. One bottle of Konjola relieved me and as I continued the treatment my health troubles all disappeared. It has been eleven months since I took this medicine but I am in excellent health today. I heartily recommend this good medicine."

Now read what Mrs. Sarah E. Croce, 2910 Relatortown Road, Baltimore, has to say: "I suffered from stomach trouble for a long time. Medicine and treatments did not help and I kept losing weight. I took five weeks of Konjola and during that time gained eleven pounds. I feel as well as I ever did in my life."

Konjola is sold here by the Roeyes Drug Store.

...were Twin Ignition!

At the National Aircraft Show just held in Detroit, all but two of the aircraft were powered by motors with Twin Ignition (2 spark plugs per cylinder instead of one).

Nash, pioneer of progress in motor car design, brings the advantages of Twin Ignition to you. Both the Nash Eight-90 and the Nash Eight-80 have this superior type of power.

The Nash Twin-Ignition motor, with two simultaneous explosions per cylinder instead of one, burns the gasoline more speedily, more completely, more smoothly, more efficiently!

By actual engineering test of the same motor with Twin and single ignition, Twin Ignition produced 22% more horsepower, 5 miles per hour more top speed, and 2 extra miles of travel from a gallon of gasoline!

Of course you can get along without Twin Ignition, but these cars—priced remarkably low—prove you don't get along so well!

Get the facts! Phone us—a Nash demonstrator will be sent to your door.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Everlasting Punishment" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 3.

The Golden Text was: "Evil pursueth sinners; but to the righteous good shall be repayed" (Proverbs 13:21).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Thus saith the Lord, Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls. But they said, Hear, O earth: behold, I will bring evil upon this people, even the fruit of their thoughts, because they have not hearkened unto my words, nor to my law, but rejected it" (Jeremiah 6:16, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The purpose and motive to live aright can be gained now. This point won, you have started as you should. You have begun at the numeration-table of Christian Science, and nothing but wrong intention can hinder your advancement. Working and praying with true motives, your Father will open the way" (p. 826).

JOHN TELLASHA TO COMPETE FOR STATE VIOLIN CHAMPIONSHIP

The Grade School Baseball Team Wins Third Game; Leads County Schools

John Tellasha, high school junior, a resident of Allendale, achieved another honor in the musical world Saturday when he received first place among the six contesting violinists in the sectional contest at DeKalb. These six boys represented the best violinists in northern Illinois. John's performance of his selected number, "Air de Vario in D Minor," amazed the judges.

He will enter the state contest at Bloomington Saturday, May 16. His instructor, W. O. Bragg, feels justly proud, and is hopeful of John's winning the state championship.

Oliver Hansen, who entered the soprano voice contest, and Clayton O'Haver, representing Antioch in extemporaneous speaking, did not place among those to compete for further state honors.

The third consecutive victory was taken by the high flying baseball team of the Antioch grade school last Friday when they defeated Grayslake, here, 1-8. Koukol and Merrill did some fine itching, and Koukol also proved to be an outstanding shortstop. The Allendale team will play here tomorrow.

Ela fooled the Antioch high school baseball team Friday when they over-looked a 5-run lead, and began rounding the bases. The game ended 9-5, with Antioch on the short end. The local boys were leading 5-0 in the fourth inning, but Ela gained confidence from some source and piled up nine runs. Paul Avery, Tony Fuchs and Johnny Brogan pitched the game, and were well supported by the strong infield.

A game is scheduled for next Tuesday at Wauconda, and another May 15 with Warren, here.

An exhibition of work done at the grade school this year will be open to the public Friday, May 22. All of the classes and the art students will have practical, original, or beautiful displays.

As a geography review, the seventh grade pupils are making individual displays of the various industries in the United States. Phases of the lumber industry, farming, dairying, fishing and manufacturing are being worked out, while automobile factories, oil wells and irrigation plants are being erected, and other of the major United States industries are being used as projects.

A style show was presented before the high school assembly Wednesday morning by girls of the clothing classes of the domestic science department. The girls exhibited dresses which they had completed themselves.

Mrs. Richey, domestic science instructor, spoke before the assembly, stressing the selection of appropriate colors and textile materials for various occasions. In particular, she emphasized the fact that the color of red is unbecoming to most people, as it has a tendency to dim the natural color and brightness of complexion and eyes.

The jazz orchestra and the string quartet will perform before the assembly at the Park Ridge high school, the main high school in Des Plaines, tomorrow.

The high school has been asked also to present a musical program before the Millburn and Lake Villa schools next week. At Millburn the a capella choir will sing, the string quartet play, and Richard Martin, who lives at Millburn, will render several violin solos.

The Grayslake Woman's Club, which meets at Round Lake today will be entertained with an hour of varied music from the soloists, the a capella choir, and the string quartet from the high school. Public speakers will add their contributions to the program.

POLAR SUBMARINE STARTS ON TRIP

Grant Storage Battery Will Supply Power for Big Under-Sea Craft

"Swiftly gliding through the water," said A. Maplethorpe, local Exide dealer, the Wilkins submarine, 'Nautilus,' recently started on the first leg of the hazardous voyage to the North Pole, powered by the giant 60-ton Exide battery with which the craft is equipped.

Briefly, the purpose of the expedition is to gather data in connection with a plan for comprehensive meteorological study, including the polar areas and with the hope that once polar meteorological stations are established it will be possible to forecast for several years in advance the seasonal conditions, and to select scientific data of academic and economic interest from an area hitherto unapproached by a scientific staff equipped with a complete scientific laboratory and facilities for comfortably carrying out their investigations, and provided with adequate means of sustenance and means of safe retreat.

"This adventurous and hazardous voyage which Sir Hubert Wilkins, his scientists and crew will make on the craft which the Navy has loaned him will provide a new and unusual vehicle for polar exploration.

Will Operate Under Ice

"An armor plated superstructure has been built on the deck of the former Navy submarine, thus protecting the conning towers and periscopes and forming a rigid base upon which are mounted what are, in effect, inverted sled runners. These runners will enable the 'Nautilus' to graze along the bottom of the ice without damage to the equipment.

"Drills have been installed for the purpose of boring through the ice if open water is not found at frequent intervals. One of the drills, 2 feet in diameter and hollow, may be extended 13 feet above deck. The hole that this drill will bore upward through the ice will enable the crew to reach the surface even though the submarine is under the ice and completely submerged. Two other drills, 9 inches in diameter, will be available for use, should ice more than 13 feet in thickness be encountered. These 9-inch drills can be elevated, by adding lengths inside the vessel, to a height of more than 60 feet. The holes these drills will bore will provide intake and exhaust vents to enable the Diesel to be operated so that the battery may be recharged while the boat is completely submerged.

Huge Battery Furnishes Power

"To those of us whose acquaintance with storage batteries is limited to automobile and radio sizes," continued Mr. Maplethorpe, "this massive Exide battery which will light, operate and propel the 'Nautilus' while submerged, is almost unbelievable in size and capacity.

"One hundred and twenty cells, each well over 5 feet high and weighing almost half a ton have been installed in the craft. This big Exide battery is similar to the batteries used in most of the submarines in commission today. Think of the tremendous power necessary to propel this craft, 15 feet long and approximately 700 tons register. So powerful is this battery that it could supply the current requirements of nearly 3,000 automobiles and could furnish enough power to carry the entire electrical load of a small city. When submerged, the 'Nautilus' has a cruising range of about 120 miles at 3 knots an hour on one charge of the battery. The battery can be fully recharged in about six hours' time. Two 500 H. P. Diesel engines complete the propulsion equipment. Fuel tanks are of such capacity that on one tanking she has a range of over 5,000 miles."

After preliminary tests which the craft is now undergoing it will sail shortly for England, the first port of call on this hazardous voyage to the polar region.

TIMELY TOPICS BY ANTIOCH PEOPLE

MOTHERS' DAY

Some unknown writer has penned these beautiful words in a fitting tribute to our mothers. He said, "If I could concentrate all the fragrance of the world into one flower, I would call it a rose. If I could concentrate all the melodies of the universe into one composition, I would call it the Messiah. If I could concentrate all the tenderness and sympathy of the world into one endearing term, I would call it MOTHER. No other word in the language is invested with such charm and pathos as this. Grave senators, grim soldiers, hard-headed business men and frivolous worldlings melt under its power. The great depths of the soul are broken up at its sound. The very incense of heaven clings to it. There is no face in all the chambers of memory so vivid to the last as the face that hung over us in the cradle, and no voice that lingers with such sweetness as the voice that sang our evening lullaby."

It has been said, "The hands that rock the cradle rule the world." There is more truth in this than we sometimes are inclined to think. It is true almost without exception that every great man or woman has had a great and noble mother. One evidence of this truth is the high degree of appreciation held for their mothers by many of our greatest men of our land. President John Quincy Adams has said, "All that I am my mother made me." Abraham Lincoln said, "I remember my mother's prayers, and they have always followed me." "The memory of my mother's singing has made my whole life sweet," said James J. Davis. Henry Ford said, "I have tried to live my life as my mother would have wished. (She died when he was 13.) She taught me as a boy that service is the highest duty in the world. I believed her then, and I believe her now. I have tried to follow her teaching. I have not done half enough for her, or for the world." President Coolidge, in an interview with Bruce Barton, said, "When I was 12 years old my mother was taken away. She was a sweet and gentle influence. I well recall her having my sister and me brought to her bedside to receive her blessing in her very last hours. She was a woman of taste and discretion, and had a fine sense of discrimination." And thus we might go on indefinitely.

There are two words in the English language which are so nearly of the same meaning that in many cases they may be used interchangeably with equal effect. These two words are "mother" and "love." If we subtract the element of love from motherhood, then motherhood is destroyed. True motherhood implies more than the mere act of giving birth. True motherhood is the most perfect embodiment of love this world has ever seen. What Saint Paul said about charity or love may in most cases apply to our mother also. "Mother suffers long, and is kind; she is not envious of those she loves. Mother seeks not her own pleasure and comfort first; she is not easily provoked, and never thinks evil of her children. She rejoiceth not in their iniquity, but rejoiceth in their righteousness. For the sake of her own, mother bears all things, believes all things, hopes for all things, and endures all things.

Mother never fails." A certain noted judge who had tried many criminal cases was addressing a large assembly of college students, and said, "Remember, boys, your mother is the best friend you have." He went on to say, "I have had to sentence many boys and men to years of imprisonment, some for life, and others even to the death penalty. But I've never yet seen a mother forsake her son, going with him even to his death, when perhaps his father and friends refused to own him." "Mother never fails."

A young man who was brought back from the front seriously wounded during the World War, lay in an unconscious state, hearing the last moments of his life. A nurse who caring for him remarked, "It only his mother were here," upon which the mother had opened his eyes and asked for his mother. Inquiring the direction of home he asked to be carried to a little window facing the west in the little emergency hospital, after which he raised to his elbow and threw a kiss westward. In the direction of home and mother. He threw it across the plains and hills and valleys of France, across the great Atlantic, and half across the United States, his home land, to a little country home in Oklahoma. He leaned back upon his pillow too weary to speak, and in a moment was gone. His dying thoughts were of home, and of mother. That, too, was a high tribute to his mother, for 'tis mother that makes the home.

Kenneth Learby has beautifully expressed his tribute to Mother in his poetic language and likewise voices the sentiments of our hearts. "O Mother Dear, my love for you Exceeds all words and song. Within my heart there ringeth true Thy love the whole day long.

Thy love outlasts all human love
Thy faith endures the test;
Thy helpful love, like that above,
Is noblest and best."

Dividend Printing

There is one kind of printing that you want—printing that pays a dividend on the investment.

A letterhead with right sort of type properly balanced is a real business asset. It will be approved of by the person receiving your letter, and while he is in this frame of mind your letter is read.

The same reasoning applies to any other job of printing. Neatness, the right weight and kind of paper, the color of the ink, the selection of the type, all play an important part in the production of dividend printing.

We are equipped to give you that dividend. Let us prove it to you.

A STORY OF PRIVATE INITIATIVE AND LOCAL CAPITAL

Chapter I

NORTHERN ILLINOIS • 1911

HOW well can you remember back twenty years? Amundsen was discovering the South Pole. Goethals was gouging the way for the Panama Canal.

Automobilists wore goggles and wrapped themselves up in linen dusters. Flying was a stunt for daredevils.

Electric lights were only for families living in metropolitan centers or in the most up-and-coming outlying communities. In northern Illinois, outside the city limits of Chicago, there were probably 100 towns receiving electricity. Their service was timed by the clock and subject to the whims of the weather. At five in the evening lights were turned on. At eleven o'clock lights blinked a curfew warning—and service was discontinued for the night. Storms cut off service indefinitely.

This was 1911. In August of that year, the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois was organized. Today, in the territory surrounding Chicago there are 318 cities and towns and nearly 7,000 intervening farms receiving gas and electric service twenty-four hours a day.

Two decades have produced this change. Believing that a review of these twenty years will disclose many facts of interest to its customers, the Public Service Company is beginning this series of stories that will appear in these pages from week to week. They will make up a kind of autobiography.

The story of gas and electric service in northern Illinois really begins about five years before the Civil War when the Ottawa Gas Company was founded to manufacture gas for lighting purposes. Its two miles of gas mains served 150 customers. In 1867 a second gas company was granted a charter in Evanston. Later a few others began operations.

Following Thomas A. Edison's invention of the incandescent lamp in 1879—an invention that for the first time made electric light practical for homes—a few scattered local companies were organized to supply electric service of a sort.

Even after twenty years of development this service was very erratic. Progress was restricted not so much by lack of engineering equipment as by lack of money. The local companies were always just a jump ahead of the sheriff. Frequently the sheriff caught up. Machinery for producing electricity was installed in whatever abandoned building could be leased. Usually the company selling the equipment had to share in the financing of the local plant. Managerships changed often. Bankruptcies were numerous. For days at a time service would be interrupted. At the end of the year there was never money left over for improvement of facilities.

Thus was northern Illinois before 1911.

The "Lake County Experiment" which first demonstrated the economies of transmitting electricity produced in a centrally located plant to scattered suburban and rural communities—which was directly responsible for the organization of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois—is the subject of next week's story.

With the first week in May a memory, many eighth grade students near Antioch, in Lake county, in Illinois, and throughout every state in the union are beginning to review and study in earnest for the final tests.

Nerves become frayed, tears and discouragement are frequent, and a feeling of suspense, of waiting, broods over the schools.

Most parents and teachers agree that "cramming" for exams reaps no lasting benefits. It is impossible to cram intelligently unless one has quite a background of general understanding of the subject upon which to fasten details.

If a child is so hopelessly unprepared for the examination that desperate cramming is necessary to push him over the line, the parent should consider two things: First, if he fails, will he feel forever disgraced, dumb, or inferior? Or, second, will failure be a good thing, arousing him to determined effort next year?

Arrange Schedule.
Human nature being what it is, to advocate that cramming be forbidden, thereby causing a child to fall, is out of the question.

A day's schedule of homework for these hectic last weeks might be arranged by the mother to the advantage of the tired bewildered child. Some children never learn how to study to gain the most information in the least time. Continued concentration is essential, and this is most easily possible when the student is alone and his mind is bright and fresh.

It might be difficult and inconvenient at first, but if he could be awakened early in the morning, about 5 o'clock, and told to apply himself for two or three hours; then to quit worrying at the end of his study period, and to go to bed early, his time would be profitably spent.

Children Will Joyfully
Help Start a Wild
Flower Garden

Ferns and violets! Doesn't the very sound of the words arouse a longing to go seeking? A nook of ferns and wildflowers in your own yard is a dream that might easily be realized with a little effort.

Rock gardens need not belong only to the wealthy who employ gardeners. Less pretentious ones may adorn any yard.

Children naturally love the wild things of nature. Aren't they continually running to you with a handful of flowers, a pretty stone, a bit of moss, or a broken bird's egg? Their interest in this line might be capitalized by enlisting their aid to find stones, hunt out the haunts of the flowers you desire, or discover where the rich soil abounds.

Provide Natural Conditions.

Spring flowers, as a rule, thrive in moist earth, and if transplanted should be given as nearly a similar environment as that from which they were taken as possible. It is most important that care be taken in maintaining the natural environment by watering, mulching, changing the soil periodically, and doing your best to imitate nature's setting in every way.

Spring flowers are transplanted most satisfactorily early in the spring. Energetic mothers to arrange their work that there is time left Saturday to join the youngsters on a "cold" expedition. Besides delighting the children, the experience will prove instructive as well. The neighbors' children would be interested in accompanying you, and helping, too.

As a fitting climax to your efforts, why not suggest to one of the boys that he build a bird house and bath for your miniature wildland?

Appetizers in the Diet

Pickles, Familiar Aids to Mealtime Zest, Used in Many Ways

MANY of us, remembering how a good grandmother's meals used to taste, recall how much hungrier we got after crunching a few pickles from the familiar old pickled-dish that usually graced her table.

Pickles have been universal favorites since long before grandmother's day. People not only liked them for their taste, but recognized them as appetite-provokers.

Nowadays, these old mealtime standbys take on a new measure of dietary importance because of the increasing recognition of their health properties. Particularly in winter, when fresh green vegetables are often hard to get, they help to supply us with needed carbohydrates, mineral salts and vitamins.

Moreover, pickles fit well into present-day menus because they are used in so many ways to give the modern decorative touch to meals.

With a bottle or two of pickles on the pantry shelf, you are prepared to give a new note of interest and moderately to any course in the menu.

For example, a new pliancy of flavor and color is added to a fruit cocktail by the addition of sliced sweet pickles. In salads, pickles are popular as ingredients of the salad itself, of the dressing, and as garnishes for the completed dish.

Sliced dill slices make an attractive and tasty salad:

Select two large dill pickles and remove centers, using an apple corer or a long sharp knife. Pack the centers full of minced cream cheese. Chill. Cut in slices and arrange several on lettuce leaves or the tender, inside leaves of cabbage. Garnish with mayonnaise. These slices may be used also as a garnish for other salads, or for meat platters; also on rounds of toast for a canapé.

A delicious tartar sauce, to serve with fish is made as follows:

Add one tablespoon of finely chopped cucumber pickle, and one teaspoon minced onion to 2 1/2 cup of mayonnaise.

Vinaigrette dressing is made simply by adding chopped sour pickle, green pepper, and minced parsley to French dressing.

Pickle Pyramids

Arrange in the order named, crosswise slices of the following pickles on top of one another to form a pyramid: slice of dill pickle, slice of sweet dill pickle, slice of sweet pickle. Use these pyramid garnishes for a border around a platter of cold sliced meat or salad.

Pickle Flower

Arrange on a large bowl of prepared fish or meat salad, just before serving. Arrange thin crosswise slices of dill pickles in a circle, about six inches in diameter. Arrange thin crosswise slices of pickled beets in a circle inside the dills. Fill the center of the beet circle with mayonnaise. Garnish mayonnaise with a slice of sweet pickle.

Bacon and Pickle Sandwich

Six slices crisply broiled bacon, chopped; 3 medium size dill pickles, chopped; 1/4 cup mayonnaise. Combine bacon, pickles and mayonnaise. Spread on buttered bread. Makes six sandwiches, 4 x 4 inches.

BOYS EXULT IN NEWS: BEATING
HARMS CARPETS

In your housecleaning this spring, did you take out all your rugs and vigorously beat them (or have your husband or one of the boys do it for you)? Maybe you will think it is just another fussy notion to mention this, but rug experts have found it to be true: Beating cracks the rug, as well as it removes the dirt.

If you do not have a vacuum sweeper in your home, even broom sweeping is preferable to the beating system, although it takes longer. Use of the vacuum sweeper two or three times a week is recommended, with annual cleaning of the rugs by professional carpet cleaners, to restore the colors.

Hints for Homemakers

By James Rogers

A master clock in the home, by which all the other timekeepers can be regulated and correct time assured is a boon alike to the housewife who must start children off to school and the man of the house who must be at his place of business on time. A modern electric clock that plugs into the wall and can't lose or gain a second without showing a warning signal, admirably meets the need.

When packing dresses in trunks or suitcases it's always wise to place tissue paper in the sleeves and between folds to prevent creases.

TOPPY'S TRAVELS

Synopsis: Topsy leaves home to follow his canary. After many adventures, Mr. Frog and Toy, the dewdrop, cause the Cushions to fight the Pillows, who have invaded the land of the Cloud-Queen. The Queen, Topsy, and Toy are now awaiting the return of Mr. Frog, who has gone to warn the Cushions against a plot of the Pillows. Continue.

It was not long before a peculiar sound of approaching steps was heard. "That doesn't sound like Mr. Frog," breathed Topsy.

A moment later Mr. Frog's voice cried hurriedly, "Quick! Let me in!" The Queen hastily unlocked the door, and Mr. Frog stumbled into the room.

"What is the matter?" cried the Queen.

"Wait—wait—I got—my—br—breath!" gasped Mr. Frog, painfully.

They all gathered about him in a circle, and Mr. Frog, upon regaining his breath, laughed at them. "You look so funny," he told them.

"Then everything is all right," the Queen sighed in relief.

"Not so fast, not so fast!" said Mr. Frog. "You must not jump to conclusions."

Topsy would not have dared so to address a queen!

The Queen drew herself up and commanded, coldly, "Please proceed with your report without further delay."

Topsy was amazed to find that Mr. Frog's eyes were twinkling.

Mr. Frog began in a slow drawl: "Well, I warned the Cushions in time to prevent the plot of the Pillows being carried completely through—"

"That is fine," commented the Queen. "Then what is wrong?"

"The Pillows are besieging the court, and soon will have the leaders at their mercy. Then they will force the Cushions to surrender most of their territory."

"But what is the matter with the other Cushions? Why do they not protect their leaders?" cried the Queen, indignantly.

"You will remember that I said his plot was not carried completely through," rebuked Mr. Frog, fixing his sharp eyes upon her. "The Pillows were successful in luring most of the Cushions to another part of the land and in splitting up their forces. I was only in time to prevent them from luring away the court guards."

"Oh, dear," the Queen sighed wearily. "Will this war never cease? Will my country ever again be free?"

Topsy's heart again burned with the desire to serve her.

"Don't worry, O Queen," he advised. "I will go out and gather your people together; then we will save the Cushion leaders."

"But that will be dangerous, Topsy," the Queen objected. "You may all be captured."

"Let him go," growled Mr. Frog.

"But is it safe?" queried the Queen anxiously.

"No, but if Topsy uses his head, he ought to be able to avoid the Pillows here. There are not many left. I'll tell him what to do."

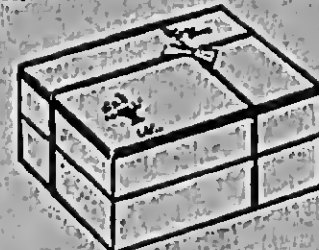

Topsy danced up and down in eager glee. "Tell me, what must I do?"

"I won't tell you now. First you must eat and sleep," Mr. Frog produced a small bit of food; threw it at Topsy, and then lay down to sleep. (Continued next week)

MILLBURN MAN IS KILLED IN WRECK ON GRAND AVENUE

Wife Is Critically Injured;
Waukegan Beauty Is Also Killed

Clarence Smith, 47, caretaker of the William Mitchell estate at Millburn, was killed and his wife badly hurt, and Mrs. Helen Merriman, Waukegan beauty contest winner, fatally injured in a collision on Grand avenue, near Lamb's corners, about 8:45 Tuesday evening.

Smith's car was struck by Fred Charbonneau, assistant fire chief at Fort Sheridan, who was driving the car in which Mrs. Merriman, a divorcee, was riding. Charbonneau claims that he did not see the other car, which is believed to have turned onto Grand avenue at the intersection, until too late to stop. It is reported that he had been driving with dangerous speed.

State Policeman Frank Valenta has charged Charbonneau with manslaughter in association with the two deaths.

Smith and Mrs. Merriman both lived several hours following the accident. Mrs. Merriman and Mrs. Smith were taken to the Lake county hospital, where doctors are waging a doubtful battle to save the life of Mrs. Smith. Mr. Smith died yesterday morning at the Victory Memorial hospital.

Third Conference Festival Features 300-Voice Chorus

The inspiring vision of vocal and instrumental groups which combine the best voices and players of the conference schools again will be presented before the public at the conference music festival at Libertyville Monday evening, May 18.

Raymond F. Dvorak, of the University of Illinois, will be guest conductor. His success in melding several groups into one harmonic ensemble in the two previous years has won the admiration of the conference, as well as popularity for him among the students. Miss Hedvig Rice, for three years instructor of the vocal groups in Antioch, will have charge of these groups for the festival, and Lynn Hoffmann will supervise the instrumental divisions.

Principal L. O. Bright again is general chairman of the committee. H. E. Underbrink will manage the local arrangements.

The interest of the audience has always been centered particularly upon the mixed chorus, which consists of 300 voices. The band will contain 200 pieces, while the orchestra, boys' glee club, and girls' glee club will each have 150 members.

OLDEST FORD DRIVER

J. M. Crow, 89, of Ethel, Miss., the oldest Ford driver in Mississippi, traversed the historic old Natchez Trace in a covered wagon eighty-seven years ago.

As rugged today at 89 as the age in American history he so picturesquely typifies, J. M. Crow of Ethel, Miss., is the oldest Ford driver in Mississippi, and one of the oldest in the United States.

When as a babe of two years he rode with his parents in one of a train of 30 covered wagons out of Cobb county, Georgia, into Mississippi, the old Natchez Trace followed by the brave little band was still infested by the swashbuckling ruffians whose bloody outrages gave that era its place in this country's history as "the outlaw years."

One of his vivid memories is bearing, as a boy of six, the news of General Scott's victorious assault on the heights of Chapultepec which ended the Mexican War in 1847, and his proudest memory is of honorable service as a Confederate soldier during the Civil War. When the southern cause collapsed, Crow was compelled to trudge 400 miles on foot to the old homestead at Ethel where he settled down to rear a family.

In the intervening years he has seen the lumberlog stagecoach give way to the fleet automobile and the comfortable motorbus, the soggy gumbo and rough corduroy roads of his childhood to the wide, paved roads of today, and although he was long past middle age before the modern automobile became commonplace, he is as enthusiastic a driver as youngsters who can boast less than one-quarter of his years.

Five generations of Crow's family are frequently seen together in his Model A Ford, the second of its type Crow has owned and driven.

NEW $5,000 HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Owner, Long Unemployed, Was Building Home
for Himself

The new house of Albert Christensen, located on the Pikeville road west of Pikeville, was completely destroyed by a fire of unknown origin Monday evening.

Although the house was unoccupied Mr. Christensen, who was building the home himself as he had been unemployed for some time, had been working on the house during the day. When the building was discovered to be ablaze, about 10 o'clock Monday night, the fire department was called, but just as it arrived on the scene, flames broke through the roof and it was impossible to save the house from total loss. Only the chimney remained.

Mr. Christensen had completed the 5-room house with the exception of building steps, placing doors, applying a final coat of paint, and finishing decoration. He and his wife were planning to move in, shortly. It was insured for $3,000.

Pikeville Farmer Is Heart Victim

Charles Frank Kohout, 45, a farmer living near Pikeville for nine years, passed away at his home Tuesday. Death was due to heart failure.

His wife, Anna, and six children survive him.

He was a native of Czechoslovakia, where he was born February 22, 1886, but he has lived in the United States twenty-one years.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Methodist church, with the Rev. Mr. Hohl officiating. Interment will be in Hosmer cemetery, north of Pikeville.

BIG STAG PARTY AT POWERS LAKE HOME IS PLANNED

Summer homes at the nearby lakes again are being opened and prepared for seasonal pastimes.

George L. Larson, of 4437 N. California avenue, Chicago, will entertain a group of prominent Chicago business men and politicians at his beautiful summer home at Powers lake the early part of June.

Great preparations are being made for this party. As Mr. Larson spares no expense, this promises to be one of the most attractive stag social events of the season.

It is expected that other similar parties will take place at other lakes nearby. Mr. Larson has arranged for championship games of golf, croquet, horse-shoes, casting, and many other sports for the entertainment of his friends.

Clean the Soot!

Don't be bullied around another winter by harboring these parasites in your basement. Smoky Jim gets into everything, and Joe Heavyash is always underfoot like a ball and chain. Pa Bentback loves to park on loaded shovels, while Sambo Soot scurries around musing up the whole house. And if you don't keep scratching Old Man Clinker's back with the poker, he'll try to break every grate in your furnace. Get rid of them all by ordering Koppers Coke. It's lighter on the shovel, smokeless and sootless, and leaves no ash worth sifting.

IN THE NICOBAR ISLANDS

It was while Kangy, Singoot and I were cruisin' with Tops'l Barney that we went ashore on th' Nicobar Islands, in th' Bay of Bengal. And what beautiful little islands they were, with their tall coconut palms, deep, green jungles and snow-white beaches.

Well a'r, our adventures started before we set foot on land. I was pullin' th' boat, close to shore, when zoom, a big wave curled high over our heads, then with a roar broke on board th' boat, nearly swept us overboard, then carried us high up onto th' beach. We were good and wet, but by gravy I was mighty thankful that it had not happened out in deep water.

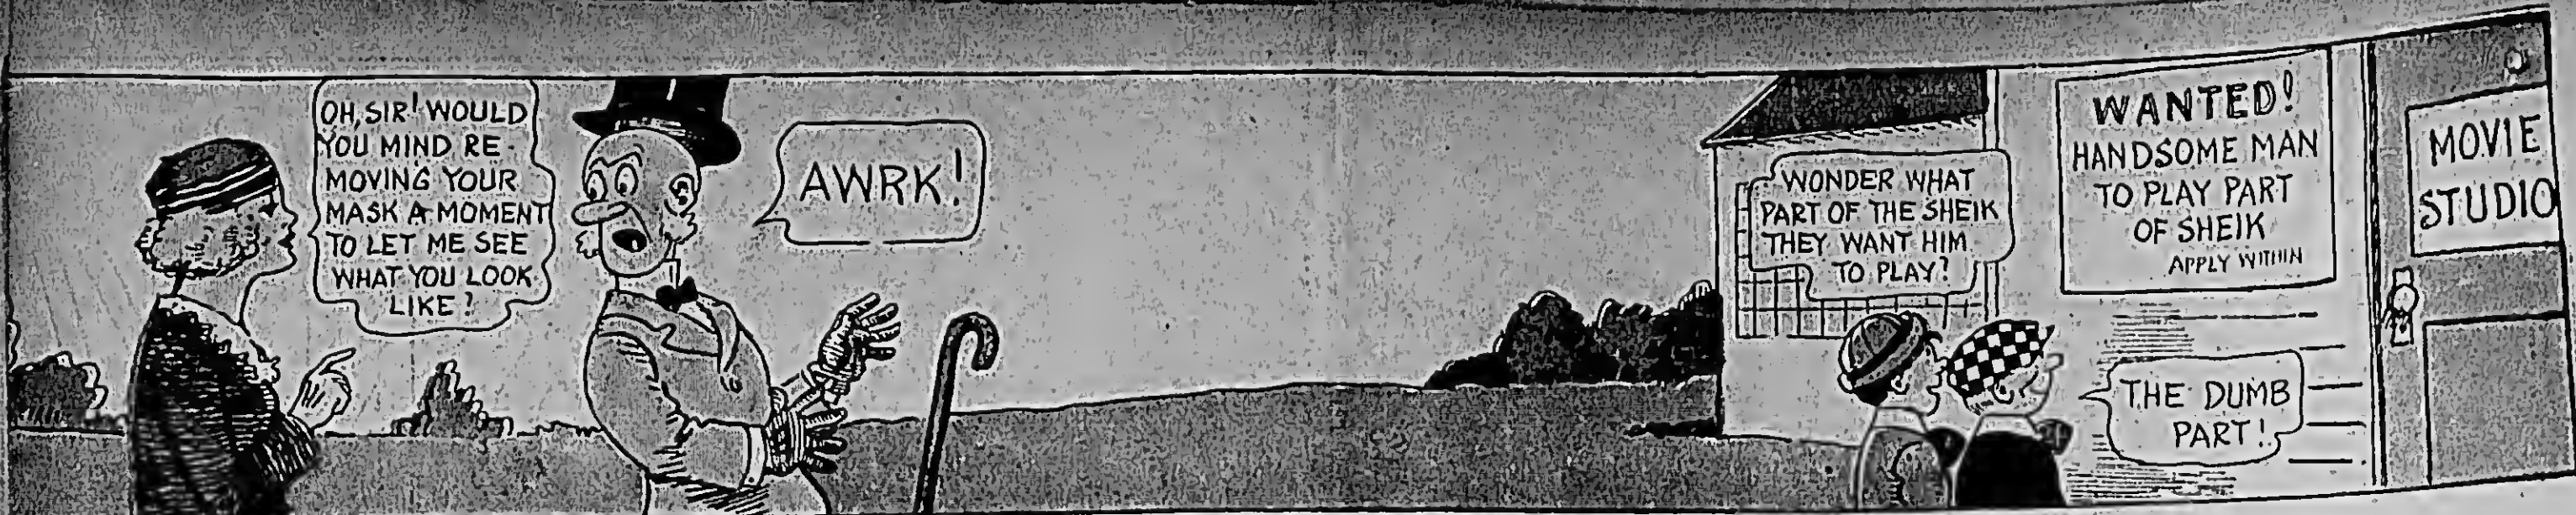

After we'd made th' boat fast to a tree at th' edge of th' lagoon, we started inland and soon came to a native village tucked away in a grove of palms. Th' king of th' village gave us a great welcome. While we sat in th' shade feastin' on bananas and oranges, he ordered his dancers to show us what they could do. It was a picnic to watch those fellers hop around. After they'd finished, Kangy and Singoot got busy and showed some of their fancy steps. I was mighty proud of 'em when th' king slapped his fat sides, laughed, and said they were better than his men.

Later, after we'd said good-bye to th' king and his people, we had our big adventure, and a mighty close call, too. We'd left th' jungle, and I was steppin' down off a log when a big crocodile reared up in front of me, sent me sprawlin' with a flip of his tail and snapped his jaws within an inch of my head. We got out of there in a hurry, figurin' we'd had enough adventures for one day.

My next yarn will be about Handsome Jack.
